FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL AT LINCOLN CENTER

The Fordham University School of Law is located in Manhattan at the new Lincoln Center campus of the University. The building, which opened in 1961, was the first erected at the campus. In February, 1969, the newly constructed Leon Lowenstein Center, housing all of the other intown schools of the University, was opened.

The Law School building is located on West 62nd Street between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues—one block west of Broadway. It is two blocks west of Central Park, three blocks northwest of Columbus Circle and is readily accessible from the 59th Street-Columbus Circle stations of the IRT-Broadway-7th Avenue and the Independent 6th and 8th Avenue subway lines. The IRT has a convenient local stop at 66th Street-Lincoln Center as well, and the area is served by a number of bus routes.

THE SCHOOL OF LAW

For more than a century and a quarter, Fordham University in New York City has offered instruction in the liberal arts and selected professional areas on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Traditionally, Fordham has been committed to the education of talented young men and women in the liberal arts and sciences. Today, it has more than 10,000 students engaged in undergraduate, graduate and professional pursuit of excellence.

Fordham, founded under Catholic auspices, for most of its existence has benefited from the services of hundreds of members of the Society of Jesus, a religious order of men who have devoted much of their energies to higher education. The University does not receive financial support from the Church, nor does it require religious practices or studies of its students. It is governed by a self-perpetuating independent Board of Trustees serving under a charter granted by the New York State Board of Regents.

Although rich in tradition, Fordham is not fettered by its past. The wide diversity of its offerings attests to the institution's commitment to meet the changing educational requirements of a changing world. Located in one of the world's great cultural centers, the University offers its students virtually unlimited opportunities for research and for cultural activities.

In turn, the University serves the Greater New York community through its professional schools and special programs.

The Law Department opened in the fall of 1905 and in 1907 was named Fordham University School of Law. After more than 50 years on lower Broadway, the School was moved in 1961 to its present location, becoming the first unit of what is now the Fordham Campus at Lincoln Center, opposite the famed cultural center of the world, Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

In this setting of park and plaza, the air-conditioned Fordham Law School building blends with the architectural elegance of its surroundings while retaining its unique character as a school of law. In addition to classrooms, seminar rooms, administrative, Law Review and faculty offices, the Law School building houses a magnificent Moot Court room, commodious lounges for students, faculty and alumni, a large, informal reading room, and a library, complete with the most modern equipment, capable of handling in excess of 250,000 volumes.

Throughout its history, the School of Law has awarded the Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) degree to students successfully completing the course of studies. In 1968, at the recommendation of the faculty, and with the approval of the Board of Regents of the State of New York and the Board of Trustees of Fordham University, the degree was changed to Doctor of Law (J.D.).

OBJECTIVES

The School of Law is a community of scholars within the University, enjoying and perpetuating the heritage of Jesuit interest in the law and legal education. The faculty conceives its primary purpose to be the preparation of students for the practice of law and the stimulation of their interest in legal scholarship. This contemplates not simply the training of men and women qualified as legal technicians but more importantly their education as lawyers fully conscious of the grave responsibilities inherent in their profession.

The School of Law recognizes that it is preparing its students for service not only in the representation of clients but in the creation, interpretation and administration of the laws which govern the nation, state and municipality. The School of Law is cognizant, also, of its continuing obligation to be of service to its alumni and to the legal profession generally as the law continues its inevitable expansion and development.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION

The School offers a practical and scientific professional education in law. The curriculum includes a study of the principles of general jurisprudence, of the common and statute law of the United States, of the system of equity jurisprudence and, recognizing that a better understanding of the present can be acquired from a study of the past, of the historical and philosophical origins of law.

The course for the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) covers three academic years in the day division and four academic years in the evening division.

The case system of study is primarily used, carefully selected collections of cases being employed as the basis of instruction. The teacher and the students discuss the assigned materials critically and comparatively, both with respect to the facts and decisions reached and the rules and principles of law involved. Thus the students are trained in legal analysis and accurate reasoning, while at the same time they are acquiring familiarity with the principles of law and their developments through the use of the actual decisions of the courts. The skills used by the lawyer in counselling clients, in drafting agreements, statutes and other legal documents, in trying cases, in arguing appeals and in legal research and legal writing are taught and practiced in class, in Moot Court competitions and on the Fordham Law Review to the fullest extent an academic atmosphere inspires and academic limitations allow.

The School recognizes the fact that a grasp of the broad principles of common law is essential for the well-equipped lawyer and aims to train its students so that they may be qualified to practice law in any common law jurisdiction.

It is believed that the courses of the School are arranged so as to unite a sound training in the fundamental principles of the law with a training in the practical application of these principles to actual legal work.

ACCREDITATION

The Law School is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is on the approved list of the American Bar Association. Fordham University is a member of the Council of Higher Educational Institutions in New York City.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

The School of Law is open to men and women. No discrimination is made on the ground of race or religious belief. Applicants for degrees must be at least eighteen years of age upon entering the first year class and must be of good character.

Every applicant must be a graduate of a college or university approved by the University of the State of New York and must present a certificate that he holds an accredited degree conferred after satisfactory completion of a four-year college course, together with a full transcript of his scholastic record.

Where the applicant at the time of forwarding his transcript has not completed all of the college work on which he seeks admission, a transcript of record to the end of his last completed term may be furnished and the transcript for the term which he is then attending is to be transmitted immediately after his completion of the work thereof.

As a prerequisite for admission, an applicant must take the Law School Admission Test. Information about this examination may be obtained at the Admissions Office or by writing to Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

Applicants taking the test should request that their scores be reported to the Fordham University School of Law. Results will also be sent to the applicant and such other law schools as he may designate.

No special preparation for the test is necessary, as it is intended to measure intellectual capacity and aptitude rather than knowledge of particular subject-matter. The test should preferably be taken before formal application for admission to the School of Law.

Applicants for admission will be accepted on the basis of their presumptive fitness to pursue the study of law with success as disclosed by their college records, their scores on the Law School Admission Test, and the information as to character and fitness contained in the statement required to be filed by all applicants, as well as such other data as may be available or required.

Any applicant who has attended any other law school and who either has been required to withdraw therefrom or who is ineligible to continue without condition in regular course therein by reason of deficiency in scholarship, or otherwise, will not be admitted to this School.

Applicants whose degrees are not registered by the State Education Department of New York as acceptable to admit the holders thereof to law study, must obtain a Law Student Qualifying Certificate. Application for a Law Student Qualifying Certificate should be directed to the University of the State of New York, The State Education Department, Division of Professional Education, Albany, New York 12201. Those who meet the School's requirements for admission should have no difficulty in procuring such certificate where necessary.

ADVANCED STANDING

An applicant who has satisfied all of the entrance requirements for regular first year students, and in addition has completed successfully one or more years of law study in a law school maintaining standards satisfactory to this School and duly registered by the University of the State of New York, and who is eligible to return to such law school in regular course, may be admitted to advanced standing. The amount of credit which will be given in such a case will depend upon the standards of the school and the quantitative and qualitative record of the student therein. Generally advanced standing will not be granted beyond the second year in the day course or the third year in the evening course.

STUDIES REQUIRED FOR DEGREE

The required course for the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) in the day division of the School extends over three academic years, in all of which at least twelve periods of classroom instruction per week are required. Students entering this division are expected to devote substantially all of their working time to law study. The required course for the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) in the evening division of the School extends over four academic years. The number of classroom hours per week in the evening division is ten in first year, and eleven or twelve in the later years.

The work of the four years of the evening course equals that required in the three years of the day course. The class schedules in the evening course are so arranged that the student is usually not required to attend classes in excess of four evenings a week.

Every candidate for the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) will be required to take all of the courses prescribed in the curriculum in the first year. In the second and third year of the day division and the second, third and fourth years of the evening division part of the courses are required and part are elective. A sufficient number of the latter courses, including at least one of the Practice courses, must be elected by the student to make up with prescribed courses the minimum number of hours required each year.

Upon making the necessary arrangements with the Admissions Office, including payment of the additional cost, a student may take at least one additional elective course per semester, provided there be no conflict with other courses elected or prescribed.

REGISTRATION

The School of Law admits students to the first year and with advanced standing only in the fall semester.

Applicants for admission to the School may apply by mail or they may appear in person at the Admissions Office at the law school at Lincoln Center to fill out the necessary statement and application on the School form and to file the required credentials. The Director of Admissions will mail forms on request.

The Admissions Office will receive applications for the entering class from the previous November 1st. All applications must be accompanied by a $15 application fee. This fee is not refundable in any event and is not creditable against tuition or other charges.

As the School limits the number in every session, and as time is usually required to consider the application as well as to procure the necessary credentials and records, early application for admission is desirable.

Students will not be registered under abbreviated or colloquial forms of recognized names. The registered name of the student will be entered on all certificates and degrees of the School, except in case of obvious error, or where the student shall have filed with the School a duly certified copy of an order of a court of competent jurisdiction permitting a change of name, and proof, satisfactory to the School, of compliance with the terms, if any, of such order.

Entering students must register personally during the scheduled registration period in September. All students already enrolled in the Law School must register personally prior to the start of the school year. The dates of such registration period are published in the Academic Calendar. All students must personally register for the spring semester at the times set by the Admissions Office and published in the Academic Calendar. No student who fails to appear as required above will be permitted to attend class without the special permission of the Dean. A late registration fee of $25 will be charged in those cases where the Dean has permitted a student to register after the stated time.

DISCIPLINE

The continuance upon the rolls and the graduation of each student, the awarding of academic credits, and the granting of any certificate or degree are strictly subject to the disciplinary powers of the University. The University reserves the right in its discretion at any time to cancel a student's registration, or to refuse to award academic credits, or to deny a certificate or a degree.

The disciplinary authority of the University is vested in the President of the University in such cases as he deems proper, and, subject to the reserved powers of the President, in the deans or other officers upon whom jurisdiction may be from time to time conferred.

HOURS OF INSTRUCTION

The classes in the day division are scheduled between the hours of 9:30 A.M. and 5 P.M. on every weekday except Saturday.

In the evening division classes will be held in the evening on every weekday except Wednesday and Saturday, commencing at 6 P.M. Certain elective courses open to day or evening students or both may be scheduled for Wednesday evening or Saturday morning.

Once registered in either a day or evening division of the School, a student may not transfer to the other division.

The School reserves the right to change the hours of classes at any time at the discretion of the faculty.

Class schedules are published at the beginning of each term.

ATTENDANCE REGULATIONS

Under the rules governing admission to the Bar in the State of New York, the law school must certify that bar applicants were in good and regular attendance upon and took and successfully completed the prescribed course of instruction required at the school for the law degree.

Further, it is clear that work in the law school cannot be satisfactorily carried on by students who are irregular in attendance.

A student is subject to dismissal whenever his attendance becomes so irregular that the Faculty deems it to constitute a bar to certification of the required "good and regular attendance," or considers it unwise to permit the student to continue. Special conditions may be imposed in other cases which the Faculty regards as serious.

EXAMINATIONS AND GRADES

Written examinations are held at the end of every term in all subjects completed therein and as essential parts thereof. Mid-year or mid-term examinations may be scheduled in some courses at the discretion of the professor. Classroom work, so far as practicable, is also a determinant of general standing.

Examinations for all classes will begin promptly at the hour announced in the examination schedule posted prior to the examination period in each semester.

Students must present themselves for examination at the examination held immediately upon completion of every subject unless excused by the Dean. Omission to do so will constitute a failure of such examination by the student.

The standing of students will be indicated by numerical grades: 90 to 100 signifies Excellent; 80 to 89—Good; 70 to 79—Fair; 60 to 69—Poor; below 60—Failure.

A grade of 60 or better constitutes a passing mark in a subject. To continue in good scholastic standing, however, a student must maintain a weighted average grade of at least 70 in every scholastic year. Any student who fails to do so will not be permitted to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree.

In case a student is permitted to defer an examination, he must take the next examination given in the subject. In the meantime, if on the examinations taken by him his weighted average is at least 70, he may be allowed to continue conditionally in the School, subject to his maintaining at least said weighted average grade when the deferred examination is taken. If on the examinations taken by him his weighted average is less than 70, he will be excluded from the School unless and until on taking the deferred examination his weighted average is brought up to at least 70.

Failed or omitted examinations aggregating in the credit value more than one quarter of the required work of any year, will constitute a failed year irrespective of the weighted average grade obtained by the student. In such case the student will not be permitted to take any re-examination in the failed subjects or to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree.

In the case of failed or omitted examinations, if the credit value constitutes no more than one quarter of the year's required work, the examinations may be retaken at the next regularly scheduled examination period, except in the case of subjects in the final year of the course. Because of a University policy to award degrees only on the first or second Saturday in June, the first day of September and the first day of February, the conditioned examinations for senior students will be held during the second week of August so that the degree can be conferred in September. If the examination is again failed or omitted, the student will be required to repeat the subject.

Any student who fails to pass or does not take the first examination offered in a course required to be repeated as aforesaid will not be allowed to take any further examination therein, or to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree.

Where the content of a course, in which a student has failed or deferred to take the examination, has changed subsequent to said examination, the student will be required to prepare himself on the altered content of the course. Should the course be omitted so that no examination is thereafter given, the student may be required to take an additional course and to pass an examination therein in lieu of the omitted course.

No day student will be permitted to enter the third year class with any failed first year course outstanding against him; no evening student will be permitted to enter the fourth year class with any failed first or second year course outstanding against him.

HONORS

A student who attains a weighted average of 85 or better for the academic year is honored by being placed on the Dean's List for that year. A student who completes all requirements for the degree with a cumulative weighted average of 87 will receive the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) cum laude; one who has a cumulative weighted average of 92 will receive the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) magna cum laude; and one who has a cumulative weighted average of 95 or higher will receive the degree of Doctor of Law (J.D.) summa cum laude.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

Some states, for example, Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Texas require that persons undertaking the study of law with a view toward practicing in those states register as candidates for the bar when they begin their study or prior to such study. Each applicant for admission to the School is advised to investigate the requirements of the state in which he intends to practice. The Director of Admissions will furnish on request the address of the particular state agency to which inquiry should be made. Timely fulfillment of these requirements for practice in the aforementioned states is essential and each student should complete his registration before classes begin. New York State does not require registration prior to the commencement of law school.

Graduates of the School who are citizens of the United States over twenty-one years of age and are actual residents of New York State, or who intend to become residents before the date of the examination, and intend in good faith to maintain such actual residence for at least six months prior to applying for admission to the Bar of this State, are eligible to take the New York State Bar Examination.

Under the revised Rules of the Court of Appeals of New York, effective March 1, 1955 and amended April 1, 1963, candidates passing the bar examination are eligible for admission to practice upon satisfying the requirements of the Committee on Character and Fitness in the judicial department having jurisdiction of the candidate's application for admission.

LAW LIBRARY

The capacity and promise of a law school are, in great part, measured by its library. The School's library—in architecture, in decor, in functionalism—is the product of years of research, designing, testing, and redesigning to determine how best to serve legal scholarship within the law school and among its alumni. Its east wall of glass overlooks a large landscaped green; the main reading room is designed to provide spaciousness and comfort and to encourage research and study.

A balconied reading area surrounds two sides of the main reading room. On the north side of the main floor are lawyers' rooms, a microfilm room and, interspersed among the stacks, carrels for individual study. The book stacks extending through five levels are easily accessible. An auxiliary and more informal reading room, occupying more than 5,000 square feet, is located on the lower level of the library wing.

The library contains more than 125,000 volumes, including an extensive collection of American, English and Canadian materials, international law and foreign law as well as the complete National Reporter System, the official state reports of substantially all states, the statutes of all the several states, citators and state and regional digests. A large and ever expanding collection of textbooks, treatises, legal periodicals and standard encyclopediae is also maintained by the library.

The library is open daily during the school year to students of the School of Law and its alumni, from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M., except on Saturdays when it is open from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

BOOKS AND BOOK STORE

The University Shop maintains a branch on the ground level of the new Leon Lowenstein Center. The shop is open during the regular business day. It carries the required casebooks and related items. It is estimated that the cost of new casebooks is about $100.00 each year in the day division and $75.00 in the evening division. Used casebooks may, of course, be used.

CAFETERIA

A cafeteria is located on the ground floor of the building. It has a serving and table capacity to accommodate 120 people. In addition to the cafeteria in the School of Law, there is a spacious dining room located on the Plaza level of the Lowenstein Center.

THE LAW REVIEW

The Fordham Law Review is published four times during the school year, in October, December, February and April, by a board of student editors chosen solely on the basis of their scholarship. The Review contains articles on a broad range of legal subjects written by members of the bar, by law school professors and by others expert in a particular area of the law, as well as notes on recent decisions and comments on legal topics prepared by the board of student editors. The publication of the Review and its use in various courses are considered part of the general educational program of the School. Law Review membership is the highest academic honor the School can confer and Law Review experience is considered ideal training for the practice of law.

The Law Review offices, on the second floor of the classroom wing, overlook the main reading room of the library. A private library and conference room is maintained by the Law Review on the same floor.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

All student activities of an extra-curricular nature are under the aegis of an elected Student Bar Association. The students who are members of this Association manage the trial and appellate moot court competitions, assist in orientation and coordinate all social functions. The Association, which maintains an affiliation with the American Law Student Association, an adjunct to the American Bar Association, also sponsors an annual series of guest lectures by prominent lawyers, handles a student insurance program and book exchange, and publishes a student directory.

MOOT COURT PROGRAM

The faculty considers participation in moot court activities to be one of the more important aspects of the student's training. Participation in the program is required for first year students, but there are several programs for second and third year students which are voluntary.

FIRST YEAR PROGRAM: In the spring semester of first year an appellate moot court competition is conducted with upper class student judges and teams of first year students arguing questions of law on appeal from trial records.

THE WORMSER COMPETITION: In the fall semester of second year an appellate moot court competition is conducted with upper class students, alumni and faculty acting as judges in the early rounds of the competition and with Federal and state judges participating in the final rounds.

MOOT COURT TEAM: From the top students in the Wormser Competition and by selection of a faculty committee a team of three students is chosen annually to represent Fordham in the Sutherland Cup Competition and in the National Moot Court Competition.

THE JESSUP COMPETITION: A team of students represents the Fordham International Law Society in the annual International Law Moot Court Competition sponsored by the American Society of International Law.

TRIAL MOOT COURTS: Trial moot courts are held for upper class day students during the fall semester and during the summer vacation for upper class evening students. This competition includes all aspects of the jury trial from the interview of witnesses to the summation argument and is tried before experienced trial judges of the New York Supreme Court.

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES

Two national legal fraternities, Gamma Eta Gamma and Phi Alpha Delta, maintain active chapters at Fordham. Both strive to establish an enduring camaraderie among men with similar professional goals by programs emphasizing the social and cultural aspects of the lawyer's life. A branch of the national legal sorority, Kappa Beta Pi, was recently established at the Law School to provide a forum for the growing number of women studying law.

FORDHAM INTERNATIONAL LAW SOCIETY

The purpose of the Society is the promotion of understanding and interest in the concepts and legal principles of the existing world order. The chief means to this end is a program of luncheon meetings and social hours at which there is an opportunity for discussion of current problems with teachers, diplomats, practitioners and administrators from government service and the United Nations. The Society also prepares a moot court team to participate in the annual Jessup International Moot Court Competition.

FORDHAM LEGAL INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The legal internship program is designed to place law students in neighborhood law offices in New York City. Under a revision of the New York Penal Law, third year law students are permitted to practice before the New York courts after a 70-hour apprenticeship with the program. Fordham law students at present are part of the staff of neighborhood law offices, and appear before a variety of administrative agencies and courts in the New York area.

The program is run by students under the direction of a faculty member. Offices for the program are located in the Urban Law Center on the third floor of the Law School.

LAW RESEARCH COUNCIL

The Council is Fordham's affiliate of the Law Students Civil Rights Research Council (LSCRRC). The Council at Fordham was originally designed to furnish research assistance to practicing attorneys working in the civil rights and anti-poverty areas in the U.S. It has submitted memoranda in a variety of legal cases in these areas, e.g., the adequacy of legal representation in the wake of the Watts riots and the commitment of juveniles in connection with the Southern sit-in. The Council has also developed an important recruitment program for placing law students full time during the summer in significant civil rights projects throughout the country, e.g., voter registration in the South and Appalachia. In 1967, the Council developed and fielded a National Conference on Welfare Law. At present the Council concentrates on welfare organizations in the city. The Council conducts its own teaching program in poverty law and develops its own programs as it sees the need.

The program is run by students under the direction of a faculty member. The Council's offices are located in the Urban Law Center on the third floor of the Law School.

URBAN LAW CENTER

The Urban Law Center was established for research, information, training and service in the area of urban social problems, especially problems of poverty and civil rights. The Center coordinates the work of the Law Research Council, the Fordham Legal Internship Program and the Consumer Protection Unit, conducts courses, seminars and lectures in poverty and civil rights law, undertakes field projects in the metropolitan area and assists in the work of other poverty and civil rights organizations and research projects in the New York area. The Center runs its own urban placement service.

The center is a cooperative effort of the law students and faculty of the Law School. Its offices are located on the third floor of the Law School.
